Monsignor Thomas G. Bohlin, the U.S. vicar of Opus Dei, and Bill Barry, the head of Doubleday's religious books division, will join together on May 9 for a presentation of Doubleday's forthcoming edition of The Way by Saint Josemaría Escrivá.

The event will take place at Murray Hill Place, the U.S. headquarters for Opus Dei, located in Manhattan.

"Many people have read about the fictional Opus Dei of The Da Vinci Code," said Monsignor Bohlin. "I hope the new Doubleday edition of The Way will help many discover Opus Dei's real message of finding God in everyday life."

The Way is a collection of points for prayer by Opus Dei's founder, Saint Josemaria Escrivá. Since The Way was first published in 1934, more than four and a half million copies have been sold, in 43 different languages.

Written in a direct, conversational style that makes it accessible to the reader, The Way has been commended by such spiritual guides as Thomas Merton and Pope Paul VI.

The new edition, titled The Way: The Essential Classic of Opus Dei's Founder (Doubleday/Image; May 9, 2006; Trade Paperback; $10.95), features a new foreword by Bishop Javier Echevarría, the Prelate of Opus Dei.

Reflecting Escrivá's belief that God speaks through the people and happenings of everyday life, The Way blends passages from sacred Scripture with anecdotes drawn from Escrivá's life, snatches of conversation, and selections from his personal letters. These insights are divided into chapters such as "Prayer," "Presence of God," "Our Lady," "Little Things" and "Joy."

Another presentation of the new edition of The Way will take place in Washington, D.C., on May 10 at 6 p.m. at the Catholic Information Center, located at 1501 K Street, NW.
